NORTH SCOTT STUDENTS HEAD BACK TO SCHOOL

Ed White

Principal John Langenhan knows things will run smoothly at Ed White on the first day of school — at least in the parking lot. The Eldridge elementary school has resurfaced its driveway, parking lot and playground, something Langenhan says was "long overdue."

Also over the summer, the school's flag pole project was completed, bringing to culmination the patriotic plans that began with last year's Grandparents' Day remembrances of the Greatest Generation.

Inside the building are more changes. New staff members include first-grade teacher Traci Verbrugge, who moved from John Glenn to replace retiree Mary Sue Ryan; media specialist Mia Beesley, who transferred from Alan Shepard to replace retiree Joyce Holland; fifth-grade teacher Shamus Budde, who will fill the shoes of retiree Mary Ann Schanze; and night custodian Cheri Leigh, who transferred from the high school.

"I'm really excited about the things we're doing in kindergarten," says Langenhan. Ed white has been selected as a model school for this area. A grant will fund a special program involving new strategies and philosophies for kindergarten, including designing the classroom to house mini-learning centers and a large loft. Educators from all over the Mississippi Bend Area Education Agency service area will visit the Eldridge elementary school to observe the new program throughout the year.

Like John Glenn school, Ed White will be able to offer its teachers a book room filled with $15,000 worth of materials for their students. Books are leveled according to ability, and there will be multiple copies for a class to share. "The whole philosophy will complement our guided reading, four-block literacy program," says the principal.

White's enrollment remains steady, with about 380 registered for the fall. "We're looking forward to a fantastic year," Langenhan adds.

NEW FLAGPOLE LANDSCAPING

Edward White School has a new and improved flagpole system and outdoor staging area thanks to the efforts of several dedicated groups. The entire school dismissed classes to attend the ribbon cutting on September 6, 2001. Key individuals were invited to take part in this celebration.

THE RAISING OF UNITED STATES FLAG

Mr. Langenhan directed Mrs. Kilzer, a fifth grade teacher and Safety Patrol members, Angela Wiebel and Bailey Dockery, as they raised our country's flag for the first time. This was followed by the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance.

RAISING THE NORTH SCOTT FLAG

A newly designed flag representing North Scott Schools was hand sewn by a community member. This flag was hoisted by the Moreland family and preschool teacher, Mrs. Cavanagh. The Morelands donated one of the benches in loving memory of their preschool son, Jeremy, who was lost to Leukemia.

THE RAISING OF THE IOWA FLAG

Mr. Lensing assists the Wilkerson children with the ribbon cutting prior to sending the Iowa flag up the pole. Tom Wilkerson was the parent responsible for designing the area and assisting with the installation. Mr. Lensing wrote the grant from the SCRA. Mr. Lensing and student, Cory Peek, also worked many hours over the summer to finish the project. Mrs. Bender, the school secretary, coordinated the entire project. Many other students, parents and staff assisted with the landscaping during the school year. We wish to thank the Scott County Regional Authority, Edward White Student Council, North Scott Maintenance Department and Mr. John Netwal for their generous support of the project. Without everyone's assistance, it could not have been completed.

IF A SCHOOL BELL RINGS IN THE WOODS...

The students and staff members of Ed White School in Eldridge and John Glenn School in Donahue have enjoyed the crisp fall weather the past two Fridays as they moved their classrooms to the great outdoors.

Ed White's Outdoor Education Day was Oct. 5. For Glenn students, Ecology Day was Oct. 12. Both schools traveled to the Wapsi River Environmental Education Center northwest of Dixon for their days of hands-on, nature-centered learning.

Kindergartners through sixth-graders made birdfeeders and s'mores, learned archery and leaf identification, played games and generally had a fun fall break from the classroom.

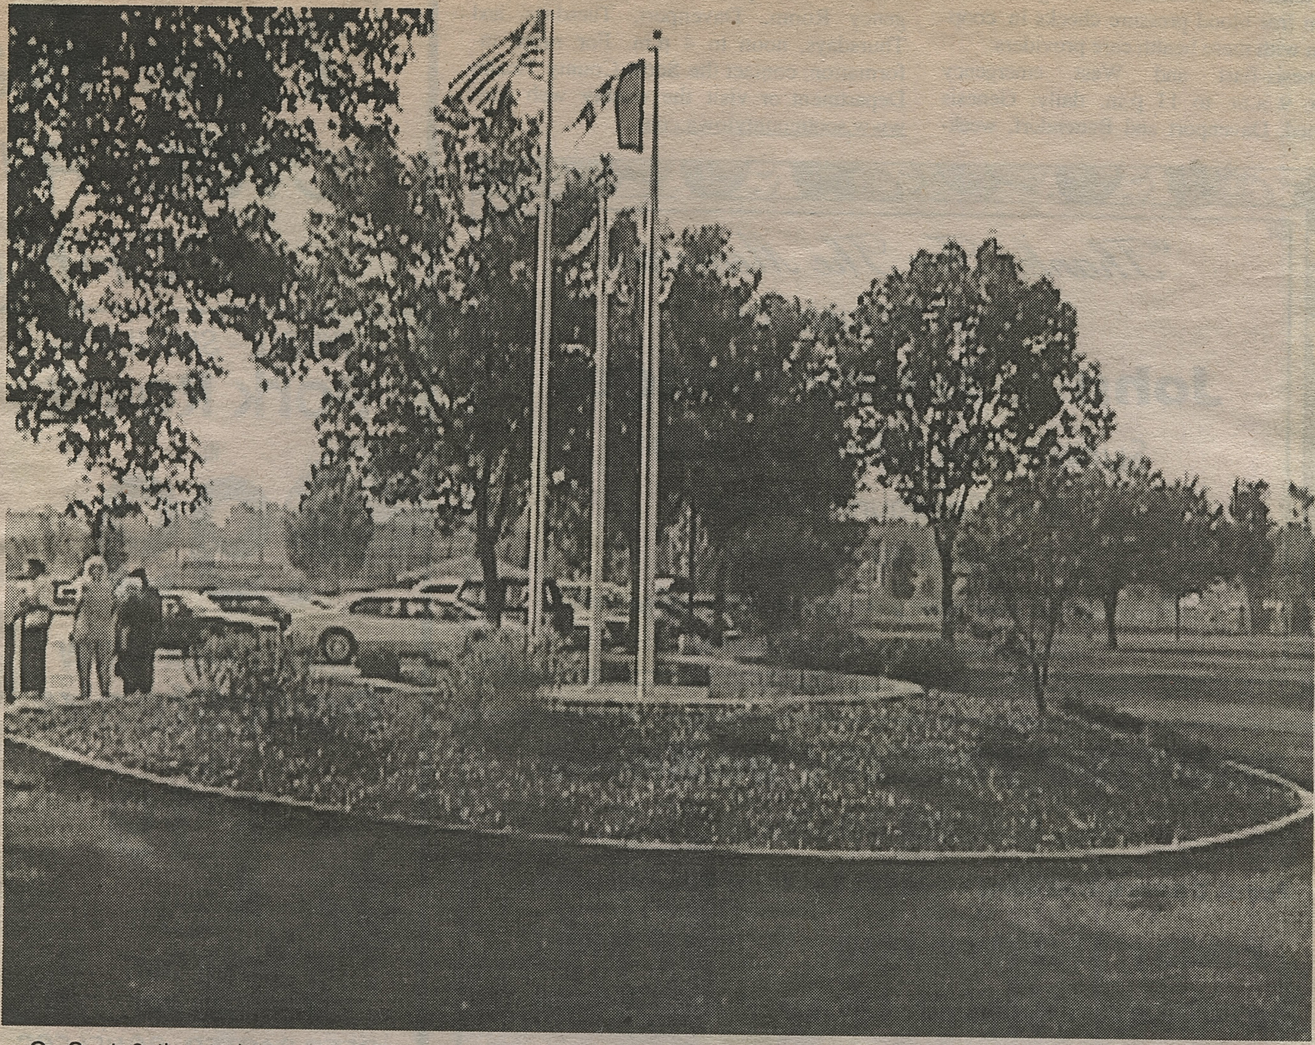
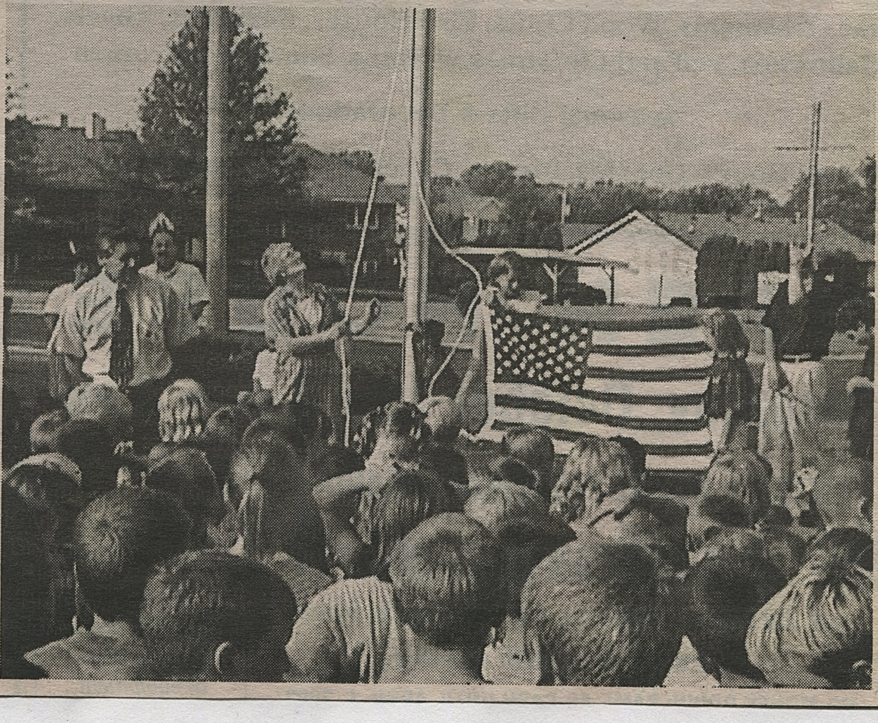
What so proudly we hail ...





On Sept. 6, the students and staff at Edward White School dedicated its new flagpole system and outdoor staging area. Flying over the Eldridge elementary school are the American flag, Iowa flag and a newly designed flag representing North Scott Schools. At right, teacher Judy Kilzer raises Old Glory for the first time with help from Bailey Dockery and Angela Wiebel. Teacher Jerry Lensing wrote the grant for funding from the Scott County Regional Authority. Parent Tom Wilkerson designed the area and assisted with the installation. Lensing and student Cory Peek worked many hours over the summer to finish the project. School secretary Mary Bender coordinated the entire project, and many other students, parents and staff assisted with the landscaping during the school year. Ed White's student council, the North Scott maintenance department and director of operations John Netwal lent their support to the project.

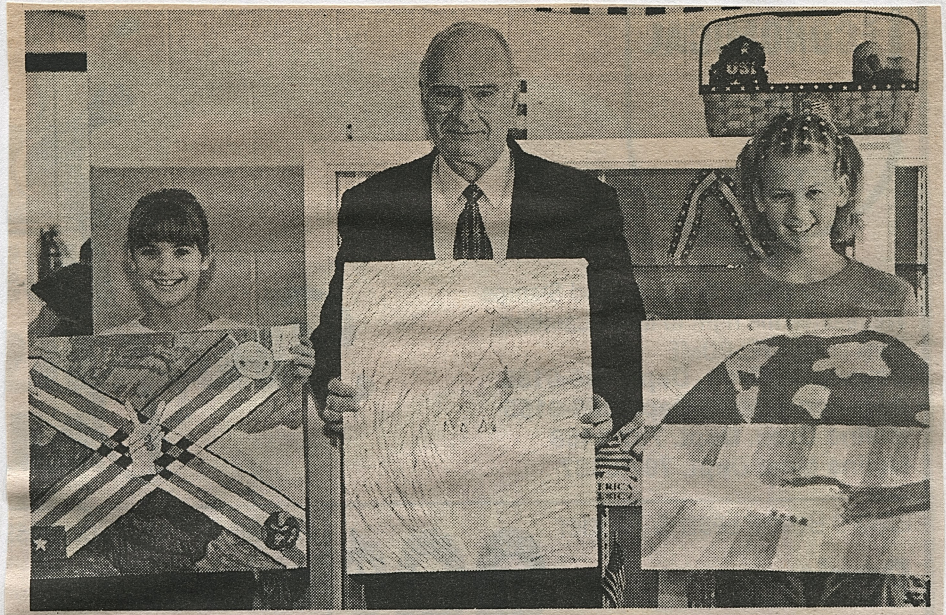
A ride to school in a real fire truck was the prize for winning the fire prevention poster contest sponsored by the Eldridge Volunteer Fire Department. Ed White winners included Carrie Kilen, Darren Dillon, Cydnie Carmody, Lindsay Puls, Kelsey Meier, Adam Murphy, Zach Altenhofen and Jordan Arp. Escorting them to school were firefighter Dan Collins (l) and Eldridge fire chief Scott Haycraft.



Given the events of Sept. 11, this year's Peace Poster contest at Ed White Elementary School had special significance. The contest, sponsored by the Lions Club, was open to sixth- graders at the Eldridge school. Winning first place was Christa Schaub (l), whose poster will go on to regional competition. Bailey Dockery (r) placed second. They are shown with Bill Geisler of the Eldridge Lions, who is holding the third-place entry of Brady Czupka, who was absent the day of the photo.
